VOLUNTEER FEATURE

This month we are featuring Sneha Panholzer. "I remember when we first packed our first 50 lb. bag of rice. There were only three of us and we thought we would never finish. We were asking people walking by to help us carry those seemingly heavy bags. Since we couldn't gather people fast enough, I decided to have children and teach them how to bag rice. We soon added beans to our then holiday event. It wasn't long before we realized that we needed to bag rice more often. We learned then, too, that there were literally thousands of hungry people living right in our neighborhood! From here our rice packing party grew and we are now serving more families than we ever thought. This opportunity has grown into a family event and we are all so happy to help people in our community."
